

ECTA warmly invites to its annual meeting 2024 in Düsseldorf, Germany

The European Chemical Transport Association is set to host its Annual Meeting 2024 at the HYATT Regency in Düsseldorf, Germany. The event will bring together key stakeholders from the chemical logistics supply chain to discuss critical issues and emerging trends affecting the industry.

The programme for this year's meeting includes two pivotal topics:

1. The Chemical Industry Outlook – Survival Mode Versus Sustainability: This session will delve into the challenges and opportunities facing the chemical industry as it balances the need for survival with the push towards sustainability.
2. The Intermodal Transport Outlook: This session will explore the current state and future prospects of intermodal transport, a crucial component of the chemical logistics supply chain.

These subjects are vital to the entire chemical logistics sector, and the event promises to provide valuable insights and practical solutions. Expert speakers from prominent organisations, including DG Move, IRU, Cefic, BLS Cargo, and others, will share their experiences and perspectives on how to navigate the evolving landscape.

ECTA invites all interested parties to join this interactive event, where they can engage with industry experts and peers, and gain a deeper understanding of the challenges and opportunities ahead.
